IN GRANITE'S COURT

A Docket Loaded With Civil and Criminal Cases.

LAUSER MUST PAY A FINE

Steven Severson Sues a Mining Company for Salary Which the Defendant Says is Not Due Him—Horse Stealing.

Special Dispatch to the Standard.

Phillipsburg, Mont., Dec. 29.—Granite county district court is still grinding away, and there is still a large docket ahead, both civil and criminal business accumulating almost daily. Several rather sensational cases have been on trial, but they were somewhat over-loaded with unprintable matter.

In the case of the state vs. Joseph Lauser, the defendant, having heretofore entered his plea of not guilty and the cause being set for trial on Dec. 23, it was agreed that the defendant be permitted to enter a plea of guilty of assault in the third degree, and defendant was sentenced to pay a fine of $50. Garden City Bottling Works vs. Ed Hellman; default entered and judgment rendered. The Hope Mining company of St. Louis vs. the Northern Pacific Railway company, it was ordered that the names of Cullen & Zoelle and W. H. Francis, attorneys for defendant, be withdrawn and the name of William Wallace, Jr., substituted therefor and the same order was made in the case of the Northern Pacific Railway company vs. the Hope Mining company of St. Louis.

Steven Severson vs. Bimetallie Extension Mining & Milling company was on trial to-day. This is a case where a director in a mining company is alleged to have assumed charge of the operations of the company as superintendent by direction of the directors and is asking the court to force the company to pay him for his alleged services.

The company says that the first it knew of the plaintiff's superintendency was one year after his services are alleged to have begun, and just before the commencement of this suit, and that if he performed any labor, skilled or otherwise, for it, he did it so quietly and unostentatiously as to be invisible to the naked eye. The plaintiff's competence as a mining man is also called in question and the defendants would have the jury believe that the plaintiff knows little or nothing about mining affairs. The case will probably be given to the jury to-night.

The next case is that of the state vs. John S. Axtell, charged with grand larceny. Axtell was formerly book-keeper for Frank Durand and the information charges him with appropriating money to his own use which he belonged to Durand. The amount is said to be quite large and the trial promises to be quite lively and perhaps sensational.

Mike McCann and John Wright are in jail, charged with that rather useless crime, in these days, of stealing horses. They will have a preliminary examination to-morrow.

PAINFUL OPERATION.

James Tait Has the Bone of His Right Leg Scraped.

James Tait passed under an operation yesterday having the bone of his right leg scraped. On Labor day, now almost four months ago, he stood with a company of friends on the platform at the park waiting for a car. While passing the time away they noticed themselves leaving from the ground to the platform. Jim made a jump and his toes slipped, he fell and struck his shins on the platform. The injury seemed only a bruise and was almost forgotten until about two weeks ago, when the right leg began to pain him and he had to cease work. Dr. Snyder pronounced the case softening of the bone, and hence the operation of yesterday. The work was done in Tait's rooms in the Beauty block. It will be several weeks before he can be about again.

FOR THIRTY DAYS.

Mattie Thornfield Is Given That Time to Sober Up.

Mattie Thornfield was arrested and tried yesterday for being drunk and disorderly in the eastern part of the city. Mattie is the woman recently arrested on suspicion of knowing something about the robbery of the two saloons. A curious skeleton key was found in her possession but nothing else. No evidence was secured against her and she was liberated. Mattie is not yet very old, she is of Indian blood and yesterday she was found guilty of treading the warpath. She was sentenced to Deer Lodge for 30 days.

DEGREE OF HONOR.

The Ladies of the Order Gave a Basket Social Last Evening.

The ladies of the Degree of Honor held a basket social last evening in the A. O. U. W. hall. The affair was very successful and pleasant. A programme of recitations and music was given and a few of the visiting Workmen were called upon for speeches, to which they happily responded. As entertainers the Degree is a very popular order.

Only a Bonfire.

A fire alarm from box 17 on Birch street gave the fire department a run yesterday morning. The alarm was caused by some rubbish burning in the rear of a house which made it look as though the back part of the house was on fire. The department made a prompt response and had there been work to do would have been on hand to do it. The bonfire was extinguished as there is an ordinance which prohibits the building of fires within the city limits.

"The Dazzler" To-Morrow.

"The Dazzler," which comes to Evans' opera house New Year's eve, is a musical comedy aggregation which is making a great hit in Butte. The material is all new, and far superior to the old "Dazzler" which has kept people laughing for more than seven years, and is interpreted by new people. Not that there is much to require interpreting but there is fun and go from rise of curtain to the final bow. Seat sale is now open.

Firemen's Banquet.

The regular monthly meeting of the fire department was held last evening in the fire hall. The usual routine of business was transacted. It was also decided to hold a banquet and social on New Year's eve for the firemen exclusively. Messrs. F. C. Walkup, F. W. Condon, P. T. O'Brien, J. W. Finkle and Steve O'Neill were appointed a committee on arrangements.

DEER LODGE NEWS.

Commissioners Transact a Lot of Business—Notes and Personal.

Deer Lodge, Dec. 29.—The board of county commissioners were in session all day and transacted considerable routine business. The reports of county officers were received, but as they were unable to include the whole year's work, the commissioners postponed action until their meeting next Monday.

Robert Dixon was allowed $48 as fees for services as special deputy sheriff. The judges and clerks of election of Blue-Eyed, Nellie district, submitted their bill for services amounting to $8 each. The commissioners concluded that $6 was commensurate with the work performed and so ordered.

The board ordered that Bernard Burg be permitted by the treasurer to pay taxes on lot 4, in block 31, in the city of Anaconda, independent of other taxes.

The county treasurer was ordered to transfer the sum of $3,000 from the poor fund to the general fund. The following bills were allowed: J. W. Brenton, tax refund, $1.23; W. H. Trippett, $5 cents; J. M. Kennedy, $5. The board then looked over some plans submitted them by Anaconda architects of necessary improvements to be made in the new city hall to make the same suitable for the reception of county officers. Estimates of the cost of such improvements accompanied the plans, but the board did not take any action.

After allowing their per diem as follows they adjourned subject to a special call: A. M. Walker, two days' attendance and mileage, $27.40; C. H. Williams, two days' attendance and mileage, $27.40; H. B. Hoffman, two days' attendance and mileage, $17. The following instruments were filed for record in the county clerk's office to-day:

G. W. Collins and wife to Ellen Burg, deed to the west one-half of lot 5, in block 23, in the city of Anaconda. Consideration, $1.

R. Roberts to C. H. Anderson, deed to an undivided one-third interest in the Capital quartz lode mining claim, situated near Ellison. Consideration, $1.

The clerk of the courts issued a marriage license to-day to Frank Loslavich and Annie Silvach, both of Anaconda.

Attorney J. R. Boorman filed a demurrer in the suit of John Lewishon vs. John Duley and Charles Duley.

John Dillon played to a well-filled house last evening in Cottonwood hall.

John G. Maroney left last evening on a visit to Helena.

Lee John of Butte was soliciting trade in his line among the Deer Lodge merchants to-day.

Hamilton, Brooks & Co. made their first shipment of a carload of ore from the War Eagle mine, in the Zosel district, this week, and the property promises to be one of the best produced in the district in a very short time. The lessees of the Bonanza in the same district commenced to haul ore to-day and they too expect to make regular shipments all winter. The Emery people are still shipping a carload of high grade ore every day.

William Morris Both Dreamer and Doer.

Dreamers with many-faced sympathies are not so rare. But this "idle singer of an empty day" made a thing to "go" when he put his hand to it. At Merton Abbey, where trees took the place of smokestacks, where the most skillful and costly workmen and workwomen toiled over Pre-Raphaelite stained-glass designs, tapestry work of classic subjects, and dies which would not fade into livid and hideous hues, the high ideals of labor's dignity, its proper enjoyment and reward, were actually attained; the workmen were paid the highest wages known in their trades, and their products were sold easily at prices which made the factory a very profitable venture from the standpoint of the proprietor's account, as well as from that of Art and Art's sake. The Kelmscott Press, with its gorgeous binding and its new fashions in initials, borders and types, and its hand-made paper, was a successful publishing venture, although the cost of making the books made their price too high for any but very well-to-do purses. Even when Morris threw on his socialist's blouse he displayed nothing of the incapacity of the visionary. The workmen looked on him as a man and a brother, and their leaders were glad to acknowledge his aid and his effectiveness. When it was necessary to raise funds for purposes of propaganda, Morris wrote a play—a sort of politico-social extravaganza—and himself took the part of the imaginary Archbishop of Canterbury. Both the play and the actor came off with tremendous eclat; the motley assembly of socialists roared with laughter, and Morris was beseeched to turn his hand to dramatic work. It was the Hyde Park phase of the poet's life, of course, which debarrd him from the laureateship. He was the artist—an artist in every thought and action—who could have worn the mantle of Tennyson with grace and propriety. From "About the World," in the January Scribner's.

That Joyful Feeling

With the exhilarating sense of renewed health and strength and internal cleanliness, which follows the use of Syrup of Figs, is unknown to the few who have not progressed beyond the old-time medicines and the cheap substitutes sometimes offered but never accepted by the well informed.

Competitions in Art Are Usually Failures.

The present interest in decorative art is bringing forth numerous competitions, and it must be confessed that most of them are examples of how not to do it. It may be doubted if the institution of a competition is the best method of securing a good result in any case. An artist will generally do better work if he is entrusted outright with a commission than if he is asked to compete with other artists for it. He will not have to think what other artists may do, or what a jury may like, but only what is the best thing to do. It may be doubted if Mr. Sargent would have risked such an original scheme as that of his decoration in the Boston public library if he had been working in competition with others, for nothing but his successful execution of the work could convince any other than himself of its feasibility. Certainly the conspicuous successes in decorative work have so far been the result of outright commissions such as those given to the decorators of the Boston public library and the library of congress. From "The Field of Art," in the January Scribner's.

Murderous Bludgeon-Men in the Streets of Constantinople.

Such men as the bludgeon-men one does not often see in the streets of Constantinople. Of the better class of Turks there were none among them. They were like a class of wharf rats and longshoremen of Western lands. They were of all shades of color, from the white-skinned Laz and Circassian to the brown and black-nosed Kurd and the coal-black Nubian from Africa. Their faces were a study of fearful passions. There were faces seamed and scarred like the head of a fighting bulldog; faces distorted by malice and greed; faces seared, as by fire, case-hard-erred in ignorance of all except vice, and ferocious as an angry tiger. Some of these faces buried their way into my memory and remained for days; a haunting revelation of brutal instincts and beastly desires which made one wonder how it was possible to have lived in safety for weeks in a city containing such men.

These men were not armed in the common sense of the word. Some of them had revolvers, and the most of them had knives. But they seldom used either; for awkward questions might be raised if the police were called to account for failing to arrest armed evildoers on the streets. Carrying axes, hammers, pick-axe handles, heavy clubs like baseball bats, jagged fragments of broken scantling, carrying anything that can crush the skull of man, this horrible rabble flooded the streets of all Christian quarters of the city, like an all-devastating tidal wave, silent but irresistible. Their silence by day was almost as terrible as their howls by night. They would be seen going along the street, when they would meet an Armenian who had ventured to attempt to reach his home. Without a word they would break in his skull and go on their way, entirely unmoved, and hardly having spoken a word. If resistance was offered they had only to say, "The Glaura resist!" and a horde of their fellows would come rushing from all directions to destroy one who had proved his seditious quality by daring to resist a Mussulman. From "A Day-stander's Notes of a Massacre," by Ivan Tscheline, in the January Scribner's.
